

Balkan Issue Checked to Russians

By RELMAN MORIN

Washington, July 1—(AP)—It was Moscow's move today on the Balkan issue that drew the most attention from the Balkan states, where an erstwhile pawn has suddenly turned into a defiant and dangerous player.

Washington observers expect quick action by the Russians.

The Soviets are confronted with not one, but two, gestures of defiance from Yugoslavia's huffy little dictator, Marshal Tito. He has declined to accept the terms of the Communist information bureau. And, in a fiery reply, his government revised the proposal for a Balkan federation, which the Russians had previously slapped down in unmistakable terms.

It is the first known instance where a satellite of the Soviets has stood on his feet and talked back.

The unique situation — which frankly baffles diplomatic experts here — arose when the Cominform issued a communique criticizing Tito. It accused him of flirting with western powers, and of pursuing a policy "hateful to Russia."

Usually, when a Communist is spanked in public, he hastens to repent in private.

Others, such as the three Soviet composers and the Bulgarian Gabori Dimitrov, were so treated. The musicians thanked their critics, and promised to try to do better. Dimitrov apologized for suggesting a Balkan federation. All were forgiven.

But Tito, to the surprise of the world, refused to follow that course.

Instead, his government replied that the charges against him were

"absurd and slanderous." That was the first gesture of defiance to Moscow. The second came in the renewal of the very proposal — for a union of Balkan states — for which Dimitrov drew the wrath of the Kremlin.

In the opinion of observers following the situation here, three salient facts have emerged:

1. Tito must be completely sure of his position, otherwise he never would have dared take such a step.

2. His strength probably derives from approval of the majority of his people — which means that, not just one man, but perhaps a whole nation of Communists has dared to break from the orthodox Communist line.

3. Premier Stalin, for the first time, has miscalculated. He permitted a move, the attack on Tito, without being certain in advance that it would be a successful move.

Rejected Suitor Slays Parents of Sweetie

Bowling Green, Ky., July 1 (UP)—A rejected lover was charged today with slaying the wealthy parents of the 52-year-old man his 18-year-old sweetheart married.

Sheriff Bowdley Davenport said that Harry Edward Kilgore, 25, admitted killing elderly Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Martin because he felt they had influenced his girl to marry their son.

The girl, Ruth McKinney, was honeymooning in Siloam Springs, Ark., with the Martins' son, Stonewall, whom she married a week ago.

The bodies of the doctor and his wife were found early yesterday in the blood-spattered bedroom of their colonial farm near here. Both had been shot in the head.

Dr. Martin was 60. His wife was 70.

Outdoor Circus Coming Here

Residents of this area are assured a full 2-hour entertainment here the July 4th holidays when the big J. C. Michaels Big City Grandstand Circus, featuring 14 complete acts, performs in the Fair park Rodeo Arena. Day performances will be held at 3 p. m. July 3, 4 and 5, and night performances will begin at 8 p. m. on July 3 and 5. The circus is sponsored by the Third District Livestock Association.

in more than 200 planes yesterday in the greatest air ferrying operation in peacetime history. The Americans had sent 125 transports to the city by late afternoon and more were en route. The British flew in 100 cargo craft and promised to double the number by the end of the week.

In Washington, U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall said he intended to stay in Berlin regardless of the Russian blockade. His announcement coincided with a Washington announcement that the number of B-29 Superfortresses in Germany is being increased from 10 to 30.

London Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said the western powers are determined to continue flying food to Berlin despite the risk of trouble with the Russians.

Bevin told the House of Commons the western powers are considering a direct approach to the Kremlin in an attempt to settle the Berlin crisis.

In Paris, foreign ministry sources said France has proposed joint American, British and French action to break the blockade. The informants said U. S. officials had expressed verbal approval.

In Frankfurt, where the American and British military commanders are meeting, Germans are being told today to start forming their own government for all western Germany.

This fusion of the three western zones will have the Russian occupied sector in almost complete political and economic isolation.

Eisenhower Still Factor to Some

By JOSEPH NOLAN

United Press Staff Correspondent
A Truman-Eisenhower showdown at the Democratic national convention appeared almost inevitable today unless the general comes right out and says he can't be drafted. Some administration sources expect Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to issue another "no politics" statement before the convention opens in Philadelphia on July 12. He is said to be nothing to indicate he has changed his mind.

But Draft-like enthusiasts are feverishly making plans to put his name in nomination at the Democratic convention. They are said to be eyeing three big delegations—California, New York and Illinois—in the hope that one of them will do the job. Alabama has offered its No. 1 spot on the convention roll to any state that will nominate Ike.

Jacob M. Arvey, a leader of Illinois Democrats, reportedly feels that Eisenhower's name is virtually certain to be presented to the convention. And he is said to believe the general's concept of duty will force him to yield to a genuine draft.

There is strong Eisenhower sentiment in California's convention delegation and some members are talking of bolting President Truman on the first ballot. And in the South, many delegates hostile to the president are rallying under the Eisenhower banner.

In New Hampshire, Democratic National Committeeman Harry Carlson asked other committeemen to join him in urging Mr. Truman to withdraw in favor of Eisenhower. Meanwhile, in other political developments:

Truman — the president showed no signs of "abdicating." He met with party leaders for two hours late yesterday to go over what he said was a statement last January. White House called the convention "machinery." Sitting in on the discussion were Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath, Party Treasurer Joseph E. Blythe, Leslie L. Biffle, who will be sergeant-at-arms at the convention, and Presidential Secretary Matthew J. Connelly. McGrath, who has just returned from a trip to Rhode Island, New York and Philadelphia said he received "good news" in the convention city.

Dewey—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey may issue a new foreign policy statement soon, according to one of his aides. The GOP presidential candidate conferred at length yesterday with his foreign policy adviser, John Foster Dulles. The two presumably discussed the Berlin crisis which Dewey has described as a "very grave."

Not Church Member

Although Capt. Miles Standish served as captain, treasurer, and assistant governor of the Pilgrim colony at Plymouth, Mass., he never was a member of the Pilgrim Church, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

In colonial days, the mayor was appointed by the provincial or colonial governor, and popular elections of mayors were not generally adopted until the 1820s.

NEW YORK COTTON

New York, July 1—(AP)—Cotton futures closed at or near the highs for the day.

Mill buying and short covering, which met light offerings caused a late upswing in the market. Futures closed 50 cents a bale higher to 20 cents lower, than the previous close.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, July 1—(AP)—Oil stocks made a hard try for higher price ground but late selling clipped earlier gains in today's market.

Closing prices for the Oils showed small declines in some cases and for others the day's best marks were trimmed.

The balance of the market didn't do much of anything, odd advances and declines were thoughtfully mixed.

Volume picked up a bit when buying of oils started but the day's total of around 800,000 shares rated the session as one of the slowest in recent months.

Ending higher were Union Oil of California, Richfield Oil, Sun Oil, Shamrock Oil, Charles Pfizer, Grand Union, Caterpillar tractor, Firestone Tire (minus a dividend), Owens-Illinois, and Eastern Airlines.

Lower were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Santa Fe, Great Northern preferred, Illinois Central, Frisco, American Telephone, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse Electric, and Publicker.

U. S. Government bonds were firm.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, July 1—(AP)—Corn managed to move ahead in an otherwise stagnant grain market today. Commission houses were the main buyers of the yellow corn.

Removal of restrictions on buyers' use of grain, small supplies at terminal markets and a more favorable cash-price feeding ratio combined to give support to corn.

In contrast, wheat showed no sign of action as the government went on offering to buy wheat at store at Kansas City. The July corn contract was weak most of the session, influenced by excellent new crop prospects.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1-2 higher, July 22-32 1-1/2, corn was 1-1/2 higher, July 22-32 3-4-12 cents, wheat 1-1/4 lower to 1-1/2 higher, July

Korean 'Peoples' Group Planned to Invade U. S. Zone

Seoul, July 1(UP)—The U. S. Army reported today that Communist documents captured in Southwestern Korea sketched plans for an invasion of the American occupation zone this month by a "Peoples Army" striking down from the north.

A high American source here said the army was not unduly concerned. U. S. officials had not heard of the group which signed the papers, the "committee of the party in Wanjun gun" or the Wanjun area in South Korea. Similar papers have been picked up before, informants said.

Fighting will be started early in July, at which time all Russian troops will be withdrawn from North Korea, the "plans" section of the documents said. "The Peoples Army" will then come down to South Korea and unite with the Communist South Korean Labor party.

"Weapons will be brought in guerrilla groups will continue their fighting until a unified government is realized. Guerrilla groups will break up the separate government."

The "separate government" is the American-sponsored assembly established in South Korea after the May 10 elections.

The papers said that instructions for fighting would be received by June 27 or 28. They did not say where the instructions would come from.

ism and to live in peace with non-Communist governments.

We know that all the strength is not on our side. And we should realize that all the concessions cannot come from the other side. Somehow, some day, we must help find a bit of common ground where we may meet the Soviet Union.

Palestine seemed to offer that bit of common ground. But our government has turned its back on it. Whatever the motives behind this gesture, the risks involved in widening the breach seems greater than the risks that might have accompanied a step toward agreement.

Negro Rapist Scheduled to Die Friday

Tucker Farm, July 1—(AP)—Edward Pugh, 26, Little Rock Negro, will die in the electric chair tomorrow at dawn for the rape of a two-and-one-half year old Negro girl.

Pugh has been in the death house since Dec. 17—the day after his conviction in Pulaski circuit court. He originally was to have died Feb. 13 but an appeal to the Arkansas Supreme Court automatically stayed the execution. The court affirmed the conviction and Governor Lancy set the death date for tomorrow.

Pugh was accused of violating the Little Rock Dec. 3 after seizing her as she played in front of a Little Rock church where her father was a minister.

Governor Lancy's office in Little Rock said not a single plea for clemency in Pugh's behalf had been received.

The Doctor Says:

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Serious sunstroke or heat stroke is accompanied by loss of consciousness. The face has a peculiar flushed and the skin is hot and dry. Fever sometimes goes up to 104 or more. Both the pulse and breathing are abnormal. It is an extremely dangerous condition.

These patients who survive for two days are likely to recover, but they are usually highly susceptible to heat in the future and their nervous systems are often impaired. In maintaining body heat regulation, it seems to be entirely upset. It calls for prompt and even radical treatment.

Less Severe Reaction
Heat exhaustion is a less severe reaction to hot sun or excessive exposure. It is related to sunstroke, however, most physicians differentiate between heat exhaustion and sunstroke because the latter is so much more dangerous. In heat exhaustion, the principal symptoms are dizziness, excessive sweating, a feeling of great weakness, paleness and a rapid pulse rate and breathing rate.

Ordinarily, people do not become unconscious with heat exhaustion. Sometimes muscles of the abdomen or the limbs develop a twitching or a cramp-like nature. The body temperature is likely to be below normal or only slightly raised. Heat exhaustion tends to come on much more slowly than sunstroke. Rest in a cool place for a few hours may be enough to cure the condition. Heat exhaustion and other measures are also necessary.

Would Include Amendment on Ballot

Little Rock, July 1.—(AP)—A proposed constitutional amendment which would forbid the Arkansas legislature to impose a state property tax has been filed with the secretary of state for inclusion on the November general election ballot.

Also presented was a proposed initiative act to confine local option elections on sale of alcoholic beverages to the state general election dates.

Sponsors of both said the number of accompanying signatures (which must be qualified electors) was more than sufficient to assure a vote on the measures.

Governor Laney is leading sponsor of the proposed amendment which shall not have the power to levy state taxes based on the assessed valuation of property of the state.

At the governor's instigation, the 1947 legislature passed a bill for early removal of the state's ad valorem (millage) tax, but in absence of a constitutional amendment, any future legislature could reinstate it.

The proposed initiative act would amend this law to allow local option elections only on general election dates. W. J. Todd of Little Rock was listed as sponsor.

Bitter Reprieve

Copyright, 1948, by Charles H. Huff, distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Playboy Marcus Sterling owes Harry Biddle $10,000 he cannot pay. His wealthy wife, Miriam, has refused him the money. He comes home late after dodging Biddle all day. Miriam is out. Biddle phones that he will be over at 11 to collect. Marcus is desperate. Miriam comes in wearing her fabulous diamond necklace. In order to get her out of the library before Biddle arrives, Marcus gives her a dog drink. Kicked up, she speaks cruelly. Miriam, who takes her drink to her room, at 11 o'clock, Marcus opens the door to Biddle. Biddle accepts a drink, lights a cigar. "Now let's get down to business, Sterling," he says.

IV
Sterling ran fingers through his mop of straw-colored hair. "I told you on the telephone that I couldn't do anything until tomorrow. Still you insisted on coming here tonight."

"Right. Always. Sterling, my customers come see me. I'm in my office. It's been a long time out here. I didn't make it just for the ride. Why do you suppose I came out here tonight?"

"Just why, Biddle?"
"I don't like to see you make a big mistake. Just looking around your place, and what little I know about you, I'd say you got a lot to lose. Like I said, you're young. You're big and good-looking and healthy. You've got a place in a bank, clubs, a swell home, a wife that's lousy with dough. That would be a lot for you to give up for just ten grand."

"I don't get what you mean."

"What do you think would happen to you if I turned your IOU over to a couple of my boys?"

"Listen, Sterling. In my business, we don't sue when a man don't pay. It's seldom a man don't pay. In my business, it's money on the line. Maybe a man has to leave his IOU, like you did, but he shows up by noon the next day with the cash. It ain't my business how he gets it, but he gets it. We don't keep books. We don't send around a collector. Maybe you've read once or twice what happens to watchmen."

"But, Biddle, a watchman is a man who has the money and tries to get out of paying. Do you think you'd have to wait if I had the ten thousand?"

"Don't make me cry, Sterling. Why do you think you've got good for ten grand in that game?"

"I lost my head... too many drinks... I shouldn't have got in that deep."

"But I'm still asking you why do you think you let me get into me for ten grand? I didn't win it. My business is for percentages. I had to pay out my own dough to the winners and take your IOU. What you owe me is a big chunk of my own capital to stay in business. Should I let you put me out of business because you had too many drinks and lost your head? Would I think you wasn't good for ten grand? Don't I know the way you been burning up Broadway? Is it my business if it's your own money or your wife's money? Just so it's money."

"Biddle, I'll put my cards on the table. All I've got is a job in a bank and a small salary. My wife owns this house. Her money pays for everything. She bought me my car and almost everything else I've got. She's bailed me out of the stock market a couple times. She's squared up some of those nightclub parties you just mentioned. I'm not proud of it, but those are the hard facts. I was dumb enough to think there was no limit. But this time she's balked."

"You mean you asked her for the ten grand and she turned you down?"
"Exactly that. It's because of the way I had to ask for it. All in cash... no check... and nothing bigger than hundred dollar bills. She thinks I'm being stuck for blackmail... mixed up in something."

"You didn't tell her you lost it playing poker?"
"That had to be out, Biddle. I just told her I needed the money seriously. She'd never be willing to bail me out of a poker game. She made that clear to me a long time ago."

"Maybe we should get your wife down here now. I won't be afraid to tell her it's my bread and butter you owe me because you got me to stake you in a poker game."

"That would be my finish, Biddle."

"It seems to me, Sterling, it's your finish, any way you look at it," Biddle said.

Sterling leaned forward. "What do you mean?"

Biddle drew deeply on his cigar before he answered. "I mean I'm not leaving here tonight until we settle our account."

"But..."
"Take a minute to think it over, Sterling. I'll give you a minute. My boys would give you only 10 seconds."

Sterling took the minute. His heart was pounding. His thoughts were racing. He rested his elbows on the arms of his chair, clasped his hands in front of his chest, and stared at Biddle. Before his eyes dimmed, Miriam's face from the time she still endeared one of his friends in picking them up when Miriam teased them down to him. She had asked him to be careful of them. Why? He was reminded of the number of boys on the ring. Her automobile. Key was easily identified, but the ring seemed to hold all of her personal keys. One of them inscribed this: "I love this key." He remembered it vaguely. The key of her house since he had seen it.

Suddenly Sterling lowered his hands, and toward his chair his legs jumped. He stared at Harry across at Biddle.

"You gave me little choice, Biddle," he said. "I'll take the chance. I'll go up to my wife. Make yourself comfortable until I come down."

Candidates to Talk to Many Holiday Meets

By BOB BROWN
Little Rock, July 1.—(AP)—Campaign strategy will be made with candidates for governor in Arkansas this week-end. Substantial numbers of candidates will take advantage of made-order holiday crowds.

Practically all contestants will attend at least one picnic on Saturday—the day being celebrated as the 4th falls on Sunday.

"We don't believe these appearances do any good," one headquarters complained, "but everyone tries to hit all the picnics possible so we'll follow the rest."

Sid McMath of Hot Springs promises to have the busiest day—actually starting with a statewide radio broadcast on his proposed highway bond issue at 6:30 Friday evening. The broadcast will originate in Harrison.

On Saturday McMath plans to be in Marshall, attend a picnic at Shiraz, enroute to Clinton, stop at South Side near Damascus and end up with an address at Conway. Somewhere in route he'll attend a legion picnic at Quitman.

The Hot Springs prosecutor was attending the Arkansas beauty pageant at Newport today.

Meanwhile J. M. Malone, candidate for governor in 1946, denied a published report he had thrown his support behind McMath.

Expressing disappointment at the failure of all candidates to offer a well defined program dealing with important issues, Malone said he has not committed himself to any candidate.

Portia's Independence Day celebration promises to be the most popular spot for gubernatorial candidates with three scheduled to appear there on Saturday. Jack Holt, Horace E. Thompson and James (Uncle Mac) MacKrell will be in the North Arkansas town. In addition Holt will appear at Corning, Piggott and Batesville. Thompson will visit Harrison and MacKrell will be in Conway.

The Harrison celebration promises to be one of the state's large affairs. In addition to Thompson, the town is expecting like Murray, candidate for attorney general and three candidates for Congress. Congressional aspirants include Rep. Jim Trimble, Charles Ivy of Bentonville and Dalton Dutton of Huntsville. Dutton is the Republican candidate.

John Lonsdale, Jr., will be in Helena in Saturday.

Meanwhile, other Independence Day celebrations are being planned throughout the state and none will be complete without speeches from other state, district or county candidates.

In other political action: Candidate Charles A. Fleming of Forrest City opened Little Rock headquarters without fanfare. The eastern Arkansas candidate for Risen yesterday and will attend a picnic at Selma this afternoon.

Jim Merritt will speak at Murfreesboro today.

MacKrell continued plans for a countywide picnic supper at Heber Springs Friday night.

Lonsdale advocated repeal of the poll tax in a speech at Brinkley last night and said he would substitute a receipt of payment of personal and property taxes which would entitle the holder to vote the poll tax would be replaced by earmarking severance taxes for school use, he said.

He also promised to tell the people of "Eastern Arkansas that they can have a race track if they want it, regardless of what boss Crump might say."

Celery, which grows wild in many parts of the world, was not used for food until the 16th Century.

Not Exactly Given a Big Welcome by California

Los Angeles, July 1.—(AP)—An undernourished, destitute North Carolina family ended a cross-country hitchhiking trip today with the father in the hospital, the mother in jail and their two babies in the care of the juvenile court.

Sherriff's deputies found them sprawled on an East Los Angeles curb yesterday, surrounded by a battered suitcase, a bundle of old clothes and some boxes of partly decayed food.

Letty Wilson, 35, so weak she could hardly talk, said they had hitch-hiked from Lenoir, N. C., in hopes that conditions would be better here. Then he suffered from extreme fatigue and a heart ailment.

His wife Helen, 33, too weak and despondent to speak, was taken to county jail. The couple were charged with vagrancy and unjustifiable punishment of children.

Officials said their children—Leroy Jr., four months, and Lillie, 15 months—were dirty, poorly clothed and undernourished.

Wealthy Couple Found Beaten to Death

Bowling Green, Ky., June 30—(AP)—Dr. C. B. Martin, wealthy Warren county farmer and retired physician, and his wife were found beaten to death today in their country home about a mile from here. Police Chief Murrell Waddle said they "definitely were murdered" and no motive was advanced for the slaying.

The elderly couple was found in a downstairs bedroom. Both of them had been beaten on the head with an axe or a blunt instrument, Mrs. Waddle said.

Mrs. Martin's body, still dressed in her night clothing, was found in bed. Dr. Martin's body was found on the floor nearby.

Sheriff Beasley Davenport reported discovery of a dark blue band from man's hat. The band was found

Apparently the Cominform Has Made Blunder in Sicking Police Dogs on Marshall Tito

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Moscow hierarchy clearly has made a mighty bad tactical blunder in sacking its Cominform police-dog on Marshall Tito and the Yugoslav Communist captives.

The Cominform has received a kick in the teeth which has done more to convince the Western democracies of the Bolshevik dictatorship's vulnerability than any event since the war. Moscow had played the school-yard bully with so little resistance for so long that it had built up a tradition of success. Now in one bad move it has thrown away much of its ill-gained advantage.

The immediate result has been a stiffening of the democratic front.

True, some very cautious speculators in Washington have been speculating that the Yugoslav maneuver might be a ruse to arouse Western antagonism and then capitalize on it, or to open up Yugoslavia as a channel through which Marshall Plan help could pass into the Soviet zone. Be that as may, if it is intended as a trick, it has failed.

Concidentally, or as the result of the Moscow-Tito mixup, both Britain and America show further signs of getting tough in dealing with the efforts of the Reds.

On Dr. Martin's body and Waddle said it indicated the physician may have grappled with his assailant. The couple's only son, Dr. Stone-well Martin, was reported somewhere in Oklahoma on his honeymoon. Other relatives were attempting to locate him to notify him of his parents' death.

Prostitution Charge Against Diplomat's Daughter

New York, June 30—(AP)—A woman who claims to be the daughter of a career diplomat today lost her fight to escape trial for charges that she "loitered for purposes of prostitution" in a New York hotel and in her East Side apartment.

Supreme Court Justice Carrol G. Walter dismissed a writ of habeas corpus which Mrs. Nancy Fletcher Chorem, 27, had sought to prevent her trial in magistrate's court on a vagrancy charge.

Mrs. Chorem had been at liberty under $500 bail until she was surrendered by her attorney yesterday to bring the habeas corpus action. Her counsel said he would attempt to obtain bail today pending her trial in women's court tomorrow.

Mrs. Chorem said her father is C. Paul Fletcher, consul general at Cebu, Philippines. She claimed false arrest and that her "honor, reputation and career at stake."

She said her husband, George, is engaged in an export-import business in Egypt.

In her affidavit she reported that: "On May 17 several policemen entered her apartment in the East 63's, under the pretense that they were checking the telephone for a faulty line connection."

A week later two policemen returned and said they had "bad news."

"They stated they were arresting your petitioner for prostitution, to which your petitioner said it was utterly impossible and ridiculous."

Police refused to let her contact her lawyer, she said, adding that she was charged with vagrancy although she had at no time committed any crime.

Police charged Mrs. Chorem loitered in a hotel room receiving calls "to go and commit acts of prostitution" in East Side apartments from Madeline Blavier, 32, charged with operating a call house.

Miss Blavier "offered to secure on various occasions Mrs. Chorem and two other women for the purposes of prostitution or lewd and indecent acts," police charged.

"I expected him to do in the midst of the tense crisis. And all this while his own life wouldn't be worth a plugged nickel if his political enemies could get within gunshot of him. Tito is a swaggering dictator in his own right—but he has his points, one of which is nerve."

The next move would seem to be up to Moscow.

DOROTHY DIX Happiness in Marriage

A correspondent asks, "What are the requisites for a happy marriage?"

Well, theoretically, all that is necessary to make a happy marriage is love, but, practically, it takes the wisdom of Solomon, the patience of Job, the self-control of a stoic, the endurance of a martyr, the charm of a John Barrymore, the sense of humor of a wit and a few other top-drawer attractions. Unfortunately few mortals possess all of these virtues, hence the great number of marriages that end in divorce or else are just endurance tests.

Of course, love is the most important thing in marriage, for no marriage can be happy in which the husband and wife are not deeply and truly in love with each other. But just love of itself isn't enough. Many husbands and wives who would die for each other cannot live together in peace. And some of the most devoted husbands and wives in the world never show their mates the slightest sign of the affection they really feel for them.

No marriage can be a happy marriage unless it is founded on love, but it has to have other ingredients, chief of which is congeniality. They must have the same tastes and interests. They must have the same goals and ambitions. They must like even the same cooking. Irvin Cobb once said that the Civil War was not fought over the slavery issue. It was precipitated by the question of hot bread versus cold bread.

In its way this conflict of tastes still rages, for husbands and wives still go to the mat when one believes in plain living and high thinking and the other is wedded to the flesh pots. It is the husband and wives who see eye to eye, who can laugh at the same jokes and enjoy the same movies, who make marriage a glad, sweet song.

It is the husbands and wives who belong to the same lodge and have the same friends, who never figure in the divorce courts, for they have nothing to fight over. They are in full agreement, so they can pat each other on the back instead of getting in each other's hair.

Little as we suspect it, our moral standards are mainly a matter of taste. We approve of the things we like to do, and we disapprove of the things we don't like to do. It is the wives who are allergic to sports who bewail their fate as golf widows. It is the tired business men who don't want to take their wives stepping of evenings, who criticize their wives for being gadabouts.

And another thing it takes to make a happy marriage is for husbands and wives to accept each other "as is." Learning and trying to make their mates over into something they never were and never can be. Before marriage every enamored young couple sell each other a bill of goods that is mainly made up of flattery. Perhaps at the time they believe it, but when they marry, the paragon, but they soon discover that they are wedded to just ordinary human beings, and then each sets to work to make the other over according to his or her own pattern. Then the trouble begins, yet it could be so easily avoided if they wouldn't try to reform each other.

The happy marriages are those in which husbands and wives not only love each other, but laugh at each other's little funny ways. Which is a tip I give to all brides, for free.

Anti-Truman Groups Are Hopeful

By JOSEPH NOLAN

Two anti-Truman Democrats today came away from separate talks with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower with high hopes over new words.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D., S. C., a leader in the anti-Truman movement, said he had "a very nice chat" with the general for 45 minutes yesterday in New York.

Johnston still for Eisenhower to be president, Johnston said, but he preferred not to say anything more right now.

William Ritchie, Nebraska Democratic chairman, predicted after conferring with Eisenhower and party leaders in New York that the forthcoming Democratic convention will select outstanding men who will accept the nomination.

Ritchie, who broke with Mr. Truman during the president's recent "non political" lecture tour, refused to talk about his meeting with Eisenhower. Nor would he elaborate on his reference to "outstanding men."

With the Philadelphia convention only 12 days away, Eisenhower was the main topic of conversation among Democrats, regardless of whether they were for or against him.

In Washington, Leon Henderson, chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, said Eisenhower boosters probably won't make any move to place him in nomination at it means a contest with President Truman. But he said he believed the president will offer to withdraw or throw the convention open.

Mr. Truman may have something to say about that tomorrow when he makes his first news conference in more than a month.

Elsewhere on the political front, Truman—the president got good news from Pennsylvania but ominous reports from California. The Pennsylvania delegation to the

Subway Fares to Go Up to a Dime

New York, June 30 (AP)—The biggest nickel ride in the world becomes a penny at midnight tonight, just like the five-cent beer and cigar.

Authorities expect some confusion when the 41-year-old reign of the nickel fare ends on the city's rapid transit system.

The new fares are ten cents on about 230 miles of subway and elevated lines, and seven cents on 132 route-miles of trolleys and 133 miles of buslines in Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island.

The city figures it will collect $200 million more a day to help out an anticipated $32,000,000 subway operating deficit.

Elsewhere on the political front, Truman—the president got good news from Pennsylvania but ominous reports from California. The Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic national convention endorsed him for another term. The Keystone state has 7 votes at the convention. But in Los Angeles, an influential member of the California delegation said Mr. Truman may lose a majority of the state's 34 votes on the first ballot. He said many delegates do not consider themselves bound to vote for the president, despite the pledge they signed three months ago to support him.

Dewey-Gov. Thomas E. Dewey got together with his No. 1 foreign policy expert, John Foster Dulles, to talk over the international situation. Dulles, who is a U.S. delegate to the United Nations, called on the GOP presidential candidate at his Pawling, N. Y., farm. Dewey and his running mate, Gov. Earl Warren, reportedly decided during their conference to support the administration's handling of foreign policy a major campaign issue.

Make Use of Plentiful Wild Berries

Dewberries, blackberries and raspberries come into season when strawberries leave off. Eat as many as you can while they are fresh.

Blackwood Demonstration Agent Lorraine Blackwood, then preserve them for the out-of-season months. Make bright, flavorful jams and jellies to spread on hot breads. Can berries to use in endless ways, and berry juice to serve any hour of the day. Freeze them to keep their vine freshness.

If you are wise in the way of berries you will (1) keep them in shallow trays or pans, (2) wash them stand around in the kitchen, and (3) never wash them until you are ready to use them.

There is no definite rule for selecting berries to preserve. It depends on how you plan to preserve them. Lorraine Blackwood explains: For canning whole berries or for freezing, choose full, plump berries that are fresh and a bright, solid color.

For jelly, use about two-thirds ripe berries for color and flavor, and one-third under-ripe berries for pectin and acid.

For canning, put two or three pints of berries in a small cheese cloth and dip them into boiling syrup (made from one part of sugar and three parts of water). Pack quickly into hot sterilized jars. Cover with the boiling syrup. Process pints for 10 minutes and quarts for 12 minutes in a boiling water bath.

For freezing, pack berries into containers and cover with cold syrup. Leave 3/4 to 1 inch headspace in the container. The dry sugar pack is also used for berries; however, the berries tend to be too mushy. To use the dry sugar pack add 1/4 cup of sugar to 1 pint of berries.

Outlines His Foreign Policy

By HAL REED

Albany, N. Y., July 1 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey declared today a United States bipartisan foreign policy he "founded" in 1913 has applied, in the main, only to United Nations affairs.

At a press conference, the Republican presidential nominee said:

"The bipartisan policy has not been applied in the other fields of foreign affairs in most of which there has been no consultation by the administration with the Republican leadership."

He listed "the other fields of foreign affairs" in which he said there had been no consultation with the Republican leadership as the "Greek-Turkish policy which was without consultation, the Potsdam handover to the American people, the Chinese and the entire China policy or lack of one."

"I have been discussing the fact and will draw conclusions when the campaign gets under way."

He discussed the facts in a conference in the executive man-

Student Ends Toughest Trip of All

Miami, Fla., July 1 (AP)—Jack Schultz, whose father was a pioneer airplane pilot on routes between the Americas, today ended a 19-day but more hazardous trip than any the father accomplished.

The 19-year-old University of Chicago student arrived here after a 5,000-mile trip from the heights of the Andes, by foot, paddle and sail. It took him more than 13 months.

The blond adventurer, his skin tanned and his beard growing wild on his cheeks, said that most of the trip was uneventful—just steady travel, hard work and loneliness.

He began on May 11, 1947, hiking 100 miles from Quito, Ecuador, across the Andes to the headwaters of the Napo river. A 600-mile paddle down the Napo to the Amazon was the next leg, and then 1,100 miles on the great South American river.

Trading his river canoe for a larger one equipped with sails, the youth taught himself how to handle it by experience in being capsized, and then on the diversion of Puerto Rico. For ten days he saw only water until he made a landfall on Devil's Island.

From there to Puerto Rico, and then on to Miami he found the roughest seas, Schultz said, but there were chances to stop and buy rationed food and supplies on the coast of Cuba.

His father, E. G. (Dutch) Schultz, was an early pilot for Pan American Airways which blazed the airline routes over the same area. He was killed in China while flying for the army during the war.

A quarantine doctor who inspected the youth on his arrival said he suffered from exposure and lack of exercise in his cramped quarters, but was otherwise in great shape.

Saved by Swing

Because the Nazis liked the way he played American swing music on his violin, Heinz Meyer survived two of the worst Nazi death camps. The 24-year-old musician is now in New York, brought to this country by the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society. His instrument is a gift from famed concert violinist Nathan Milstein, who heard him entertain American troops.

Telescope to Measure the Universe

Palomar Mountain, Calif., July 1 (AP)—The foremost job of the 200-inch telescope will be to complete a highly accurate yardstick for measuring the universe.

This yardstick is partly ready now. It consists of an imaginary line 60 million million miles long, marked with equally imaginary marks on it like inches on a foot ruler. But out toward the end of the yardstick the marks are not now accurately spaced.

The problem is like that of a man at the starting end of the stick trying to establish marks out to the other end by sighting along the straight line. The farther out he sees the more difficult it is to peg the places on it where the marks should be.

To do this will require some highly complex observations of known stars and galaxies and a final venture into using the peculiar behavior of light from far distant island universes. Dr. Walter Baade, of Mt. Wilson Observatory, told the American Astronomical Society today.

In the shadow of the "Big Eye," now known as the Hale telescope, Dr. Baade outlined the working program for the $6,600,000 instrument upon which scientists are relying heavily in their drive to find the outward fringe of creation.

The first step, Dr. Baade said, will be to redetermine the brightness of some known relatively nearby stars whose distances already have been pretty well calculated.

These stars are called cepheid variables. Their brilliance goes up and down at regular periods, usually hours or days. The longer the periods, the brighter these stars are. Since their distance is known, astronomers by observing their variations in brilliance can get an accurate measure of their intrinsic or actual brightness.

By comparing this brightness with the light of other cepheid variables in faraway galaxies whose exact distances are not known, the astronomers can pick these distances pretty accurately and in turn compute the distances of those galaxies.

The 100-inch telescope on Mt. Wilson, with the aid of a prime instrument for magnifying starlight already has determined the distances of these stars in 14 galaxies.

Since the Hale telescope can reach out effectively to twice the distance of the 100-inch, it will add data from 14 galaxies farther out.

Country Club Tournament Planned July 5

Roy Bruce, Country Club professional golfer, today announced a tournament would be held at club course on July 5. This will be a flag tourney based on handicap scoring.

All golfers are urged to participate.

The world's largest city, so far as area is concerned is believed to be the town of Kiruna, in Swedish Lapland, which received city privileges Jan. 1, 1948. Although it has only 15,000 inhabitants, it spreads over more ground than 10 times the area of greater New York City.

Malone Says He Is Supporting No Candidate

Little Rock, July 1 (AP)—The man who made a creditable showing in the 1946 race for governor says he isn't supporting any of this year's candidates for the job yet.

In a signed statement, James M. Malone of Lonoke declared that "the news story published this afternoon (yesterday) in a Little Rock newspaper (The Democrat) stating that I have extended my political support to Sidney McMath for governor and will make speeches for him was written and published without my knowledge or any authority from me."

He added that "the failure of all candidates for governor to offer a defined program dealing with important issues has disappointed me," but said he was "ready to join openly and actively with the one candidate" who might expand his platform to meet "squarely the problems of roads, school, strip colleges, old age assistance, hospitals and certain political reforms."

"Until then I can not conscientiously espouse the cause of any candidate to the point of enthusiastic support," Malone concluded.

Williams Rules on Time of School Act

Little Rock, July 1 (AP)—If the proposed school reorganization act is adopted at the November general election, districts will have until June 1, 1949 to consolidate under existing laws, Attorney General Guy E. Williams said today.

He issued an opinion to Lewis J. Johnson of Fayetteville, who asked how much time a district would have to consolidate with another school district after the proposed school district reorganization act passed on November 2, 1948.

The act in question is the initiative reorganization act sponsored by the Arkansas Education Association, which was defeated at the general election two years ago.

President Robert M. Bray of Arkansas State Teachers College, Conway, was asked the trustees could adopt regulations defining non-consent as a person who has not consented to Arkansas teachers' union.

He wrote that the trustees had adopted a collection of laws from a reorganized state and that regulations of a new state would be adopted.

The word "initiate" is derived from the Latin word "initium,"
